

Oscar Johannesen

The Brunswick Pilot; Friday 10 August 1928; pg. 8 col. 3

DEATHS

Oscar Johannesen, fifty years of age and a life long resident of Brunswick, died by his own hand on Monday morning, when he fired a pistol bullet through his brain while standing at the grave of his father in Oak Grove cemetery. Mr. Johannesen had been in wretched health for several years and constant brooding over his condition is supposed to have caused his act. He is survived by his mother. He was buried beside his father on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. J.E. Wayland of the Presbyterian Church, conducting the services.
