J.J SPEARS, FORMER MAYOR OF BRUNSWICK, DIES AT HOME HERE

J.J. Spears, pioneer citizen and a former mayor of Brunswick, died Friday morning at the residence 6? Ellis street, following a brief illness. He was in his eighty-second year. Surviving him are his widow and the following children: Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Spears, of Atlanta, the former manager of the North East Electrical company; Mr. and Mrs. George Collins, of Rochester, N.Y., and R.R. Spears, of New Orleans.

Mr. Spears moved to Brunswick shortly after the civil war, in which he served with distinction in the Confederate army. He was widely known in Atlanta.
